There are a number of theories in existence on the subject of the evolution of mankind.

The authors of this light-hearted photo-book, having deeply contemplated the question, have decided to put forward another and rather more convincing version.

A little time ago I...

...with my friend...

...seriously began to ponder over evolution and came to some interesting conclusions.

In the beginning life was pretty good for human.

From boredom he decided to build a bigger home,

...and then a bigger one.

*After that he wanted it recorded somewhere that this home belonged to him.
That is when the first lawyers
appeared on earth.*

*He then started to worry about the possibility of his home burning down.
That is when the first firemen
appeared on earth.*

*After further thought
he decided
he needed
to keep a dog
to guard
his home.*

As man continued to live on his pastimes spawned the birth of the very first designers,

...singers,

...poets,

...and politicians.

Despite all of this man soon became bored... but just then something drove past his home that made him forget his boredom.

*So picking out some best
gifts and the favorite dessert he set off
to introduce himself and
make an impression.*

*It worked!
But not long after that children
began to appear...*

*...and more
children.*

One day the mother-in-law arrived in his home...

*...with her
washing
machine.*

Man began to worry...

He began to wish that he could fly to some far away place,

...with his favourite cow.

He decided to seek out the advice of a local sage on the question of where he could hide from everybody.

*And
after that
the first diver
appeared on earth...*

Understanding the concept of evolution my friend and I also went diving.

*Even though on this day
on our way along the shore...*

*...there were yet again
many different mermaids,*

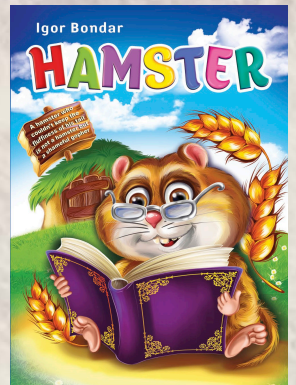

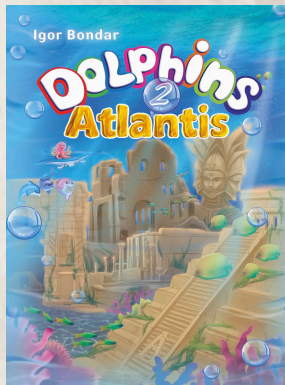

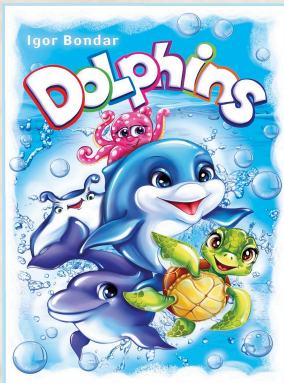

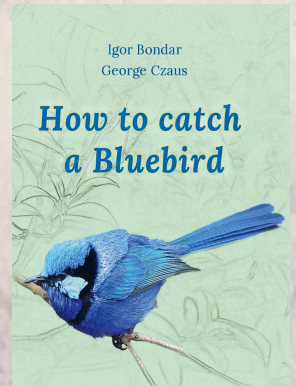

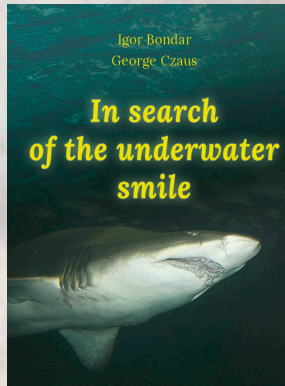

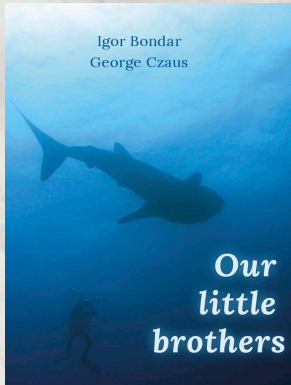

...but having understood the fundamental principles of human evolution, we are did not lost our correct path that day...

...and made the right choice.
